UPDATED WITH CONTEST DETAILS!

Being a mom is often a thankless job. A messy one: Poopy butts, snotty noses, dirty laundry, messes houses. Kids get sick, they get whiny, they get in trouble, they get drivers' licenses. There are so many things about being a mom that make life much more complicated, difficult, and downright draining.

But most of us, if you asked us, wouldn't trade it in. We wouldn't take our before-kid lives back. It's hard.... but it's worth it.

Why? That answer can be answered so many ways.

For Mother's Day, the Detroit Free Press and Detroit.MomslikeMe.com are compiling a long list of all those answers. We hope we get responses that are sweet, funny, insightful, touching. A long selection will run on Sunday, May 9 (Mother's Day!) in the Life section.

The answers are going to come from you!

NEW: If your answer is selected to appear in the paper, you'll be put into a drawing for a spa-afternoon-out for two on Mother's Day! Five winners will get to pop into the D.Tour spa at the MotorCity Casino for a spa service. Each will get to bring another deserving mom-friend along! The winners will be awarded one of five services: a manicure, a pedicure, a D-tour scrub, a facial or a massage. The prizes will be awarded in that order, so first name drawn gets the two manicures, and so on.

Thanks to MotorCity Casino and the D.Tour Spa for sponsoring this prize package! See more about the casino and spa at www.motorcitycasino.com

So, in this thread, reply between right now and April 30 with your answer to this question....

What is the moment that makes being a mom worth it?

Those who are selected to be included in the story will be notified prior to publication, and we will need to get your full name, age and hometown to run with your comment. We won't run your username. If you're not willing to share that information, please don't comment!
