

Political issues including free trade agreements, 1099 employee misclassification, carpentry licensing, illegal immigration and much more are on the forefront of our agenda. We are working with representatives, senators and more on both sides of the aisle gaining support for the causes we fight for everyday.

I believe it is clear that the unionized construction industry, as well as other labor union groups, play a valuable and viable role that aim to protect the best interest of all workers – making organized labor relevant to all American workers, families, and businesses.

Mike Jackson is the executive secretary/treasurer for the Michigan Regional Council of Carpenters and Millwrights.

gay Barack Obama Bible and gays budget cuts comics poll creationism Diether Haenicke economy Fred Upton From the comments-Gazette health care
health care reform Hillary Clinton Israel
Kalamazoo Kalamazoo City Commission MI newspaper industry Pearls Before Swine race relations Republican Party in Michigan U.S.
Rep. Fred Upton