

The Andiamo Novi Theatre continues skewering local politicians in its new revue, "Kwame A River 2: The Wrath of Conyers," an original satire that picks up and boldly goes where "Kwame A River" left off.

The show's run has been extended until Dec. 27 due to popular demand.

Kwame is out of jail and in exile in Texas, and in his absence, the unpredictable Monica Conyers has become president of the Detroit City Council.

"Kwame A River 2: The Wrath of Conyers" chronicles Conyers' tenure as head of the council and comically displays everything that happened — from raucous council wars to Cobo contracts and feuds with eighth-graders — and everything that you didn't know happened, such as her secret therapy session with Dr. Phil, her unlikely and passionate "affair" with Ken Cockrel Jr., and her wacky plans to turn metropolitan Detroit into a tourism haven.

Dozens of local characters appear in the new show's sketches and songs, including Kwame and Carilta Kilpatrick, Dennis Archer, Coleman A. Young, Gov. Jennifer Granholm, George W. Bush, Jeff Daniels, Martha Reeves, Ken Cockrel Jr., Mel Farr Superstar, Kid Rock, Aretha Franklin, Geoffrey Feiger, Ted Nugent, The Temptations, Stevie Wonder, L. Brooks Patterson, the Sam Bernstein family and the entire unpredictable City Council.

Show times and prices are 8 p.m. Wednesdays and Sundays at $15, 8 and 10 p.m. Fridays at $20 and 7 and 9 p.m. Saturdays at $20.
