Bultynck & Co., P.L.L.C.

Christopher M. Scott, a partner at Bultynck & Co. P.L.L.C., didn't find his calling in the field of accounting right away. The Warren native initially pursued his degree in engineering before he discovered his true talent.

By his second year at Michigan State University, a fateful meeting with a counselor led him to do something drastic – drop all of his courses and follow a completely new path in business administration. It made all the difference. Scott earned his bachelor's degree in business from Michigan State University in 1997 and later obtained his master's degree in taxation from Walsh College in 2002.

Christopher worked at Plante & Moran, beginning in 1997 and moved onto Ernst & Young, before he joined the staff of Bultynck & Co. in 2000. Christopher embraced the small business atmosphere where change seemed to be the only constant. His education, keen attention to detail, and his entrepreneurial spirit have served him well throughout his career.

Each day at work is different than the last, Christopher noted. Just four years after joining Clinton Township-based accounting firm, he became a partner in the firm, along with Christine A. Bombard and David L. Bultynck.

Christopher was drawn to the company because of the firm's dedication to personalized service. "We make sure the clients are served well and that all of their needs are met," he said.

Like his business partners and the staff at Bultynck & Co., Christopher maintains close contact with clients. His willingness to meet in person with clients and remain simply one phone call away at all times gives new meaning to accessibility. Christopher understands the needs of small business owners don't end at the end of each business day. He aims to help all of his clients succeed.

Christopher is a Shelby Township resident. He is married to Laura Scott and they have two daughters: Chloe, 8, and Alisa, 6. When he is away from the office, he enjoys golfing and, above all, spending time with his family.
